Bumgarner did pretty much everything right, except strike out the first five batters he faced. He was accurate all night, working his fastball down in the zone with decent velo and consistency, and had an excellent pitch selection. There was a drop in his command, however, and he made several risky and aggressive decisions in the first inning that could have cost him another good start. He threw a slow slider to Jon Jay that led the Giants to a quick groundout, an aggressive slider to Brandon Crawford that drew a strike, and a changeup that he didn't execute on the pitch when he should have been trying to put the ball away in a favorable setting to begin the inning. Those were some bad throws that cost him an inning, but Bumgarner finished with his highest ground-ball rate during his big first outing of the year.. Here's a look at each member of the Giants staff from Wednesday night's action: Giants starter Madison Bumgarner.. Twitter Google+ Google+ EmailGiants pitcher Madison Bumgarner started off Wednesday with a bang, striking out nine and walking just five in just three innings, but the performance came after his team entered the game tied with the Dodgers in the NL West standings at 2-4. Buster Posey became the first player in four major league seasons (1999-2000) to record 25+ strikeouts and get on base 17 times with his debut. It was certainly a surprise to Bay Area fans as they didn't expect this to happen at this time of year. We'll keep our fingers crossed for further development in the near future.. The Giants didn't sit back just yet and sent a two-out, walk-off RBI single to Buster Posey off the first pitch of the game. That got us thinking about an early rally before the big games started. They finished with a 1-3 edge in runs scored, and were 2-for-19 in the eighth against the Dodgers, but it didn't quite pay off against the Giants, finishing with five singles by Bumgarner. He's got six RBIs this season, and all four of his steals were for singles. He was also named to the International League All-Star Team after his fourth career All-Star appearance. Bumgarner's production this season has been impressive, but he's one of a few players who will need to improve as the season goes on, and he needs to add another punch to.. Then there's a voiceover that says, "No, I haven't gotten pneumonia." And that wasn't it. It also featured three shots of her shaking hands as well as shots of her looking up. "Just relax and stay relaxed.".. At a fundraiser in Florida on Wednesday night, the presidential candidate told a crowd of supporters that she has a lot of time to work on her hair because of allergies related to allergies.. But the speech doesn't begin with a shot about allergies. Instead of saying, "I don't eat that at all," Clinton says, "I've never gotten a tick. There's lots of cow proteins out there.".. The report states the following details of the violence in Charlottesville: A 22-year-old woman died from injuries after a car plowed into a crowd, killing nine people. Some of the victims reported that their friends had been injured so badly they had difficulty breathing, others were screaming in pain or suffering from other injuries in the car. A 29-year-old woman died of wounds suffered during an altercation and was later identified as Heather Heyer, a 32-year-old college student who was among the dozens injured. The car plowed into a crowd. More than one hundred people, including many members of the public, were arrested. Anti-fascist groups said they had counted at least 10 people, mostly members of counter-protest groups, who were arrested. Police said that police had used tear gas to disperse the rioters.. The Clinton-Hoffman ad begins to show a series of images of Clinton as she goes through each step of getting her hair into her face. She talks to a woman, saying, "I'm not allergic. I don't really drink cow milk." She puts her coat on, saying, "I wash my hair and I eat very well. There just seems to be more out there." All she has to say in that sentence is, "There's lots of cow proteins out there.".. Twitter Google Reddit Add this skill set to your resume to get a mention in our job hunting tool.
