A: The fact the router is showing SSCP as the protocol does not mean it is sending SSCP packets. Check the packets with a packet sniffer and see if the router is sending something at a low-numbered IP Protocol (ie. IP Protocol 1, TCP or ICMP). Noticed that the router is probably using that to mask SSCP. SSCP is usually used for Desktop calls and is usually controlled by a website rather than the router. With this background, a technique of enhancing the efficiency of radio waves in the frequency region of 5.8 GHz to 6.5 GHz has been developed. For instance, an electromagnetic wave transmission antenna shown in FIG. 15 has been proposed. This electromagnetic wave transmission antenna 100 includes a first circular radiation electrode 101 that is provided on a front surface of an insulator 102, and a second circular radiation electrode 103 that is provided on a back surface of the insulator 102. The first circular radiation electrode 101 is provided so as to have a radius of curvature R1 of about 20 to 30 cm, and a driving terminal 105 is provided on the first circular radiation electrode 101. The second circular radiation electrode 103 is f678ea9f9e
